Have you ever thought about protecting the stream you live near? If you haven't, you should take action NOW. First, you could research about native plants and shrubs and plant them at your local riverbank (In the Christmas holidays if you have time).

Secondly, you could really help by minding your rubbish. Plastic contains oil, which takes millions, no billions, no zillion years!!! to break down.

Lastly, don't tip deadly or toxic oils down drains. Such as paint, soap, or dishwashing liquids ect. Everyone can help even you just do one thing.

Save the Stream*

some things
you could do

- Keep any household chemicals or harmful fertilizers away from streams, creeks or rivers near you're property.
- don't feed the ducks
- Pick up after you're dog.
- fence streams to keep livestock out
- Pick up and compost leaves. Pick up litter and/or ensure it's properly disposed of.
